The Headmaster's Address

To the Class of 1984:

What a great group you are!

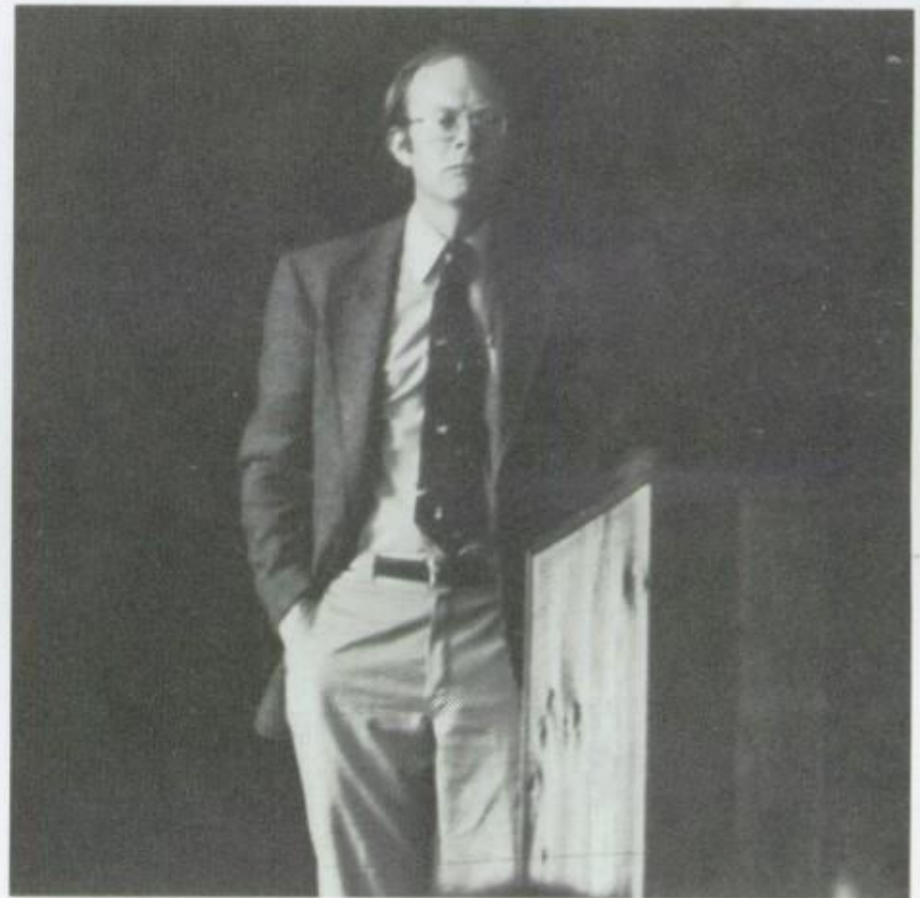

Yours was not the class that began to turn quickly my receding hair gray! Quite the contrary, you gave me and the faculty many reasons to be very proud and encouraged by the considerable strides you each made in your preparation for college and adult life.

Your participation and leadership in the Capital Campaign started us off on what is fast becoming one of the major accomplishments of this decade — the eventual renovation of our facilities and the building of a significant endowment fund to support the faculty and a great variety of programs. Your generous gift of a new flagpole will always be a memory of the importance of your help with the rejuvenation of the campus.

Thank you for your humor, your perseverance, your character. You helped make the Academy a better place at which to live, learn and laugh!

Best of luck and, please, be certain to keep in touch.

Samuel Robinson II
Headmaster

The Dedication

The class of 1984 dedicates with pride its yearbook to a teacher who has concentrated maximum effort on preparing us academically for college and the future. In his eight years at NYA, he has never ceased to instill in us the foundations necessary for academic success.

As Academic Dean, he has advised us wisely on our course selections, and as a college advisor he has directed students to college suitable to their individual needs. His dry humor both in and out of the classroom is as much a trademark as his seventy point tests, the belt always worn to the side, and his well known expression: "Ah, put a big X on that." Not one of his students will forget that $c^2=a^2+b^2$.

In his straightforward manner he has taught us with enthusiasm and patience. He has generously given us his time and constantly urged us to succeed in his classes. Outside the classroom, this teacher will always be remembered for his great enthusiasm as a coach for the girl's varsity softball team. During a game, he is aware of each girl's needs and stats. His excitement for the game and his truly fine sense of sportsmanship have contributed greatly to the team's successes. His love for statistics has made him as good a manager as a coach.

This teacher's attention to us as individuals is manifested in the halls of the Academy, as well as on the playing field and in the classroom. Often he stops to talk to us, asking about our current activities and interests. He has helped juniors and seniors through SAT preparation, inducted students into the National Honor Society and served on the original Long-Range Planning Committee. This man chairs the Math Department, as well as the Department Heads.

In offering so much of himself to the betterment of the Academy, we feel humble at offering so little. Yet we are honored to make this dedication to you — Mr. Martin — and we wish you continued success at Saint Andrew's School in Boca Raton.

Special Acknowledgement

The senior class wishes to acknowledge a teacher who has offered a great deal to the N.Y.A. community, and as we assess the two years that he has influenced the Academy, we will remember fondly his unique appearance and his entertaining humor.

First, his appearance. His hair is what one might call a longish bowl cut ala Hagstrom. Whenever we asked whether he planned on getting it cut, he replied with a smirk and slight bewilderment, "I just did."

Next, his suit. The three-piece suit will remain vivid in our minds as the familiar motto: "Don't leave home without it" rings faintly in the background. With his suit was the "matching" briefcase; a hand-me-down from his wife who got it second-hand in the first place. Gucci should ask you to do a commercial for leather longevity.

One of his most distinguishing characteristics is his humor. We don't know what helped develop his unusual sense of humor but we do know that it has indeed developed lively and often cryptically apt slogans that have filled the sports assemblies with laughter. His comment to his goalie "... perhaps if the pucks were ringdings, he would have stopped more goals ..." and his remark about coaching the largest J.V. hockey squad in the Free World will linger in many smiles.

His humor has also seeped into the classroom where discussing the economy, his house, and his wife and three and one half kids, has kindled bursts of laughter in his room. And even when he was in incredible discomfort with his sore back, he managed to smile as his sophomore English class waited inside the classroom, only to quack at him as he entered. Any other person forced to waddle like a duck might have handled those quackers a Saturday, but not this oddly spirited man.

Aside from adding humor and charm to the school, he also works as the director of the N.Y.A. summer program, as coach of the J.V. hockey and baseball teams, as the instructor of sophomore and senior English students, as well as a college guidance counselor.

Mr. Hagstrom, you are greatly appreciated for your humor, friendship, guidance, and teaching abilities.

We, the senior class, are grateful for patience, advice, humor and charm. We extend our best wishes for your continued happiness wherever you may go.

Special Thanks

The class of 1984 would like to thank the many individuals, our family members, teachers, and staff, who daily encourage, prod, and cajole us to achieve attainable goals.

Quotes:

Cocktails: Essential component of all wind powered vessels. A sailboat may be operated after losing its rigging, its rudder, its mast, and even its sails, but without cocktails it is little more than a floating hulk. Consequently, skippers in the vicinity of any sailing craft lacking cocktails are required, under law of the sea, to render prompt and timely assistance, although they are permitted to fulfill this obligation with bargain brands and less vintages.

Soccer Class "C" State Champions

(L-R) 1st row: B. MacQueston, D. Brooks, B. McLeod, C. Beck, K. Russell, J. Skillings, J. Fanning, S. Dumond. 2nd row: Coach Morris, C. Erdman, S. Dineen, S. MacQueston, M. Nelson, S. Carroll, M. Roffey, J. Thornley, E. Weinrich, A. Walsh, B. Bernard, M. Sparks.

North Yarmouth Academy's soccer team recorded their first State Championship in the school's history. Coach Steve Morris guided his team to NYA's win of the Class C playoff finals.

Pre-season practice began in late August. Immediately, Coach Morris began to stress his game plan of tight marking and precise controlled play. Replacing the missing cleats of Mike McHugh, Ryan Munro, and Matt Gove was one of the coach's major concerns early in the season. Fortunately, this year's forwards Eric Weinrich, Chris Beck, John Fanning, Mark Roffey, Bob Bernard, and Chris Erdmann were successful scorers. Controlling the transitional play in mid-field were halfbacks Joe Thornley, David Brooks, Andy Walsh, Steve Dineen and Alex Weinrich. Headed by Co-Captains Jim Skillings and Keith Russell, the defense of Brent McLeod, Murry Sparks, Sean Carroll, Mark Nelson, and Scott McQueston displayed solid field play. Goal tender Steve Dumond with backup Bob McQueston, held the opponents to a minimum score with a record of eleven shutouts.

The opening season game produced a win over Buckfield. The next four games recorded shutouts and Mr. Morris knew he had developed the right combination for a tight defense. The next game, however, handed the Panthers their first defeat. This was followed by another setback from the defending Class B State Champs — Gray New Gloucester; 0-4. At this point, Coach Morris knew that the team needed something more to be true champions. He stressed more team unity and harder work in practice. The players were equally as determined to improve and won the next eight games with only one tie. Winning 2-0 over Gray New Gloucester in the second confrontation was the first time the Panthers had defeated GNG in a number of years and the win gave NYA a great mental boost. It was at this point the team knew they possessed the potential to be the state champions.

North Yarmouth Academy went into the quarter final playoffs with a 10-3-1 record. The first playoff game was played against the defending Class C Champions, the Yarmouth Clippers. The Panthers had not played a league game against the Clippers for a number of years and the inter town competition was approached with much enthusiasm.

The game started with a scoreless first quarter but broke open in the second quarter with NYA scoring two goals. The third quarter proved equally explosive with the Panthers' offense scoring three more goals to go ahead 5-0. In the fourth quarter the defense continued to play tight and kept the defeated Clippers scoreless.

The semifinals game was played against St. Dominics and the Panthers were ready for the challenge. The memory of 72 corner kicks from last year's playoff was still not gone from the coach's mind. Yet NYA rolled to a 2-0 victory over the Saints and was off to the Regional finals.

The Regional final was played at St. Georges Valley. Georges Valley has been a menace to Coach Morris. In the three previous playoff attempts, Georges Valley had defeated NYA readily. Mr. Morris knew that by marking the two high scorers on the other team closely, that the Panthers controlled style of play would overcome the kick and run play of the Buccaneers.

The game started according to Mr. Morris's plan with no score. In the second quarter, NYA was behind with the score 2-1. The Panthers were not to be denied. With a sluggish start, the mark system paid off, stopping the Buccaneers' top scorers and the Panthers' forwards scored two more goals to give them a 3-2 victory and a trip to the state finals.

The state Class C final was played at Husson College against Wisdom. A ride from Yarmouth to Bangor in pouring rain and 40 degree temperature did not darken the Panthers' spirits. The team played through mud and puddles to a 4-0 lead at the end of the third quarter. Then the cold began to take its toll and some players had to be treated for hypothermia. With such adverse conditions, they continued, determined to be victorious. With a 4-0 win over Wisdom, the Panthers became the first team in the history of North Yarmouth Academy to be the State Champion soccer team. The season ended with a record of 17 wins, 4 losses, 2 ties, the State Championship and a dream come true.

MAISAD CHAMPIONS

(L-R) 1st row: A. Lindsey, A. Murray, K. Andrew, J. Gove, A. Palmer, S. Hart, D. Lindsey, A. Gove. 2nd row: Coach Bobrycki, S. Karkos, M. Fenderson, D. Pullen, K. Male, J. Lane, D. Flaherty, T. Clark, K. Curry, Mgr. M. Fitzgerald.

Successfully guided by Coach Bobrycki, the Varsity Girls Field Hockey Team had a winning season: 6-2 in the MAISADS and 8-7 overall.

The team made the season successful through hard work. Although only three members of the team are seniors, these seniors were a great inspiration to the underclassmen. Amy Lindsey's versatility was counted on whenever the team needed a sparkplug in any position. Meg Fenderson's eagerness was an incentive for everyone to win. And Tina Clark's aggressiveness proved to be an example to follow for both upper and middle school classmen.

The forward line, mid-field, defense and goalies united to form one of the best field hockey teams in NYA's history. The goal hungry forward line consisted of Andrea Gove, Kris Male, Stphanie Hart, Andrea Murray, Joanna Gove and Amy Lindsey. Andrea Gove and co-captain Stephanie Hart were the leading scorers on the team with nine goals each. The bulk of Andrea's goals came in our game against Kents Hill when she scored five of her nine goals. Stephanie, on the other hand, scored close to one goal per game: her consistent aggressiveness was particularly noteworthy since the coaches in the league voted her to the First Team All Star Class-C squad. Our other co-captain Serrene Karkos, too, gave a great deal of aggressive play and the two captains together consistently encouraged everyone to improve and put out each game, both in word and by example. Along with Karkos, the mid-field was comprised of Meg Fenderson, Kristina Andrew, and Desiree Pullen. Each of these girls ran hard and greatly added to our transition from defense to offense. Desiree who had never played hockey was a delightful surprise to the varsity program and by the end of pre-season practice, was a definite starter and player for the team.

Appropriately named "The Bruise Machine" by Coach Bobrycki, the defensive backs Dorene Flaherty, Jennifer Lane, Deanne Lindsay and Betina Clark often performed somewhat suicidal moves in order to stop one-on-one goalie situations. And with her infamous mask, goalie Allyson Palmer had her best season yet. She recorded five shut-outs and ended with a 1.7 goals against average. Her dedication to the team was obvious and the improvement in her footwork was a major factor in the team's achievement of the MAISAD championship trophy. In addition, Laura Haney was a solid back-up goalie to the defensive line. And our manager Maureen Fitzgerald was an important member, contributing many wet hours of keeping the scorebook.

There were some definite highlights in our season. The come-from-behind win over Freeport is one. With a 2-0 halftime score with Freeport in the lead, Stephanie Hart scored two goals back to back to even the score and send the game into overtime. Joanna Gove's lone goal of the season during overtime was the game winner. Another highlight of the season was our contest against the Yarmouth Clippers. We held them scoreless until the last three minutes of the game and thus ended the game only relinquishing one goal to a team who generally scored readily on us in the past. And still another exciting turn of events occurred during our second confrontation with St. Dom's. Our first game ended with a 6-0 blowout, yet our second game, on our home turf, ended with a 3-1 score. This was the first time we had scored on St. Dom's in the six times we have played them, and although we lost, it was an emotional victory.

With few players leaving the team, we look forward to another highly competitive season next year.

Cross-country is usually regarded as a sport that fails to attract large numbers of fans, and for good reason. It is awfully difficult to muster a crowd of fans to span three or four miles. For this reason, people tend to list cross-country as an unchallenging and easy sport. What these people do not understand is the incredible physical and mental stamina required to cover three or four miles in fifteen or twenty minutes. To overcome the obstacles encountered in a race necessitates a heavy dose of serious concentration. It is simply not going out and running, but planning strategy and mind games against opponents. For the runners themselves, this is very difficult to master. The Academy's varsity cross-country team this year realized the challenge of the sport and began to work from late summer to late fall in order to master these skills.

Overall, the men's team successfully completed their 1983 season with a 10-6 record, with a second place finish in the state meet, and with a first place finish for one of our runners in the states. This was the culmination of a season's practice which began in late summer. The period between summer and fall is when much of our conditioning took place, starting with a mile or two and working our way up to eight or ten a day. But, looking optimistically towards the future, Coach Hudson began a gradual development of depth that made every individual a key runner to a race. When the team mustered at the opening practice, we had five boys for the men's team including four returning veterans, Bowdie Austin, Brad Wall, Matt Jeton, Denny Morehead, and Willy Thomas all of whom feared being the sole runners. But by the first day of school the number had grown to twelve, and the season began with the MDI International with no one knowing how we were going to do.

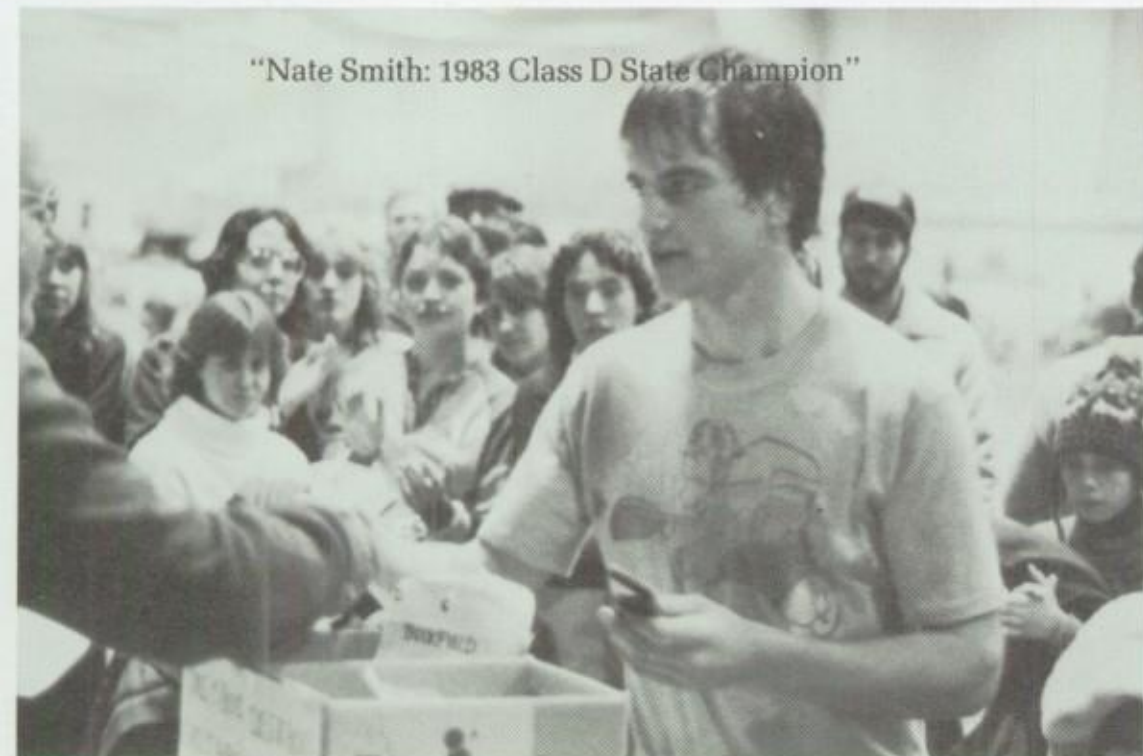

At our first meet, MDI, NYA faced stiff competition from class A and B schools, yet we fared rather well in individual performances. It was at this meet that Nate Smith displayed his natural ability to run cross-country. While there were numerous close races, the success of the season largely depended on the attitude and morale of the runners. Each team member contributed a particular quality to the team that enhanced its performance. For instance, Bowdie Austin, plagued with leg and knee injuries, was persistent in his running and rarely complained about his injuries. Nate Smith's consistent display of fine running was an inspiration to first year runners such as Dan Sanville and Scott Ayre. Both of these people contributed hard work and humor. Denny Moorehead, afflicted with abdominal pain was determined to return to the team and did so, placing second on the team and seventh overall at Kents Hill. Willie Thomas, Dave Weymouth, co-captains Brad Wall and Matt Jeton were strong, especially in displacing runners in the last quarter mile of a race. Wall and Weymouth displayed excellent hustle and an aggressive drive for winning. This year's team record was the result of teamwork and hustle, which were evident in each and every player.

State Class D Championships — 2nd Place

Demanding and satisfying are two adjectives to describe the sport of cross-country. The pain of running a three mile course is often overshadowed by the satisfaction of finishing. There is a great deal of personal satisfaction and improving one's individual time as well as placing in the top five. This year's team had a fairly successful season with only a few minor hindrances. An obvious hindrance was the constant threat of not having a full team.

Coach Kessler began the year with two freshman novices — Amy Anderson and Chris Coleman — and a returning sophomore, Dawn Nelson. Since a team must have five runners to participate in a meet, Coach Kessler doubted if a team would ever exist. After making a few pleas to the student community, three more members — Julia Noyes, Jenna McEvoy, and Kim Luce — joined the team.

With a high score and without a full team at the Mt. Desert Island Invitational or at Wiscasset, and then having two runners disqualified in the tri-meet with Hyde and Waynflete, NYA went on to win a squeaker against rival Waynflete, 29-26. However, the team then lost the next three meets against Hyde, Wiscasset, and Yarmouth. Yet these defeats in no way showed lack of team effort or accomplishment.

Senior Julia Noyes ran consistently, even though beset with injuries. Freshman Jenna McEvoy and Sophomore Dawn Nelson added consistency, as well as a strong, competitive attitude to the team. Furthermore, at the State Championships held at Colby College, the team had three surprising finishes which allowed NYA to achieve a second place finish. Despite the pouring rain and cold temperature, Freshmen Chris Coleman and Amy Anderson finished fifth and sixth respectively, while Junior Kim Luce placed tenth.

Besides doing well at the State Championships, the team had one other highlight of the season: a practice handicap race which pitted the girls against the boys in a three mile race. Kim Luce won the race, while Chris Coleman and Nate Smith fought it out for the second place finish. Even though Chris was outsprinted in the last one hundred yards by the boy's state champion, Nate Smith, her performance added an exciting note to the race.

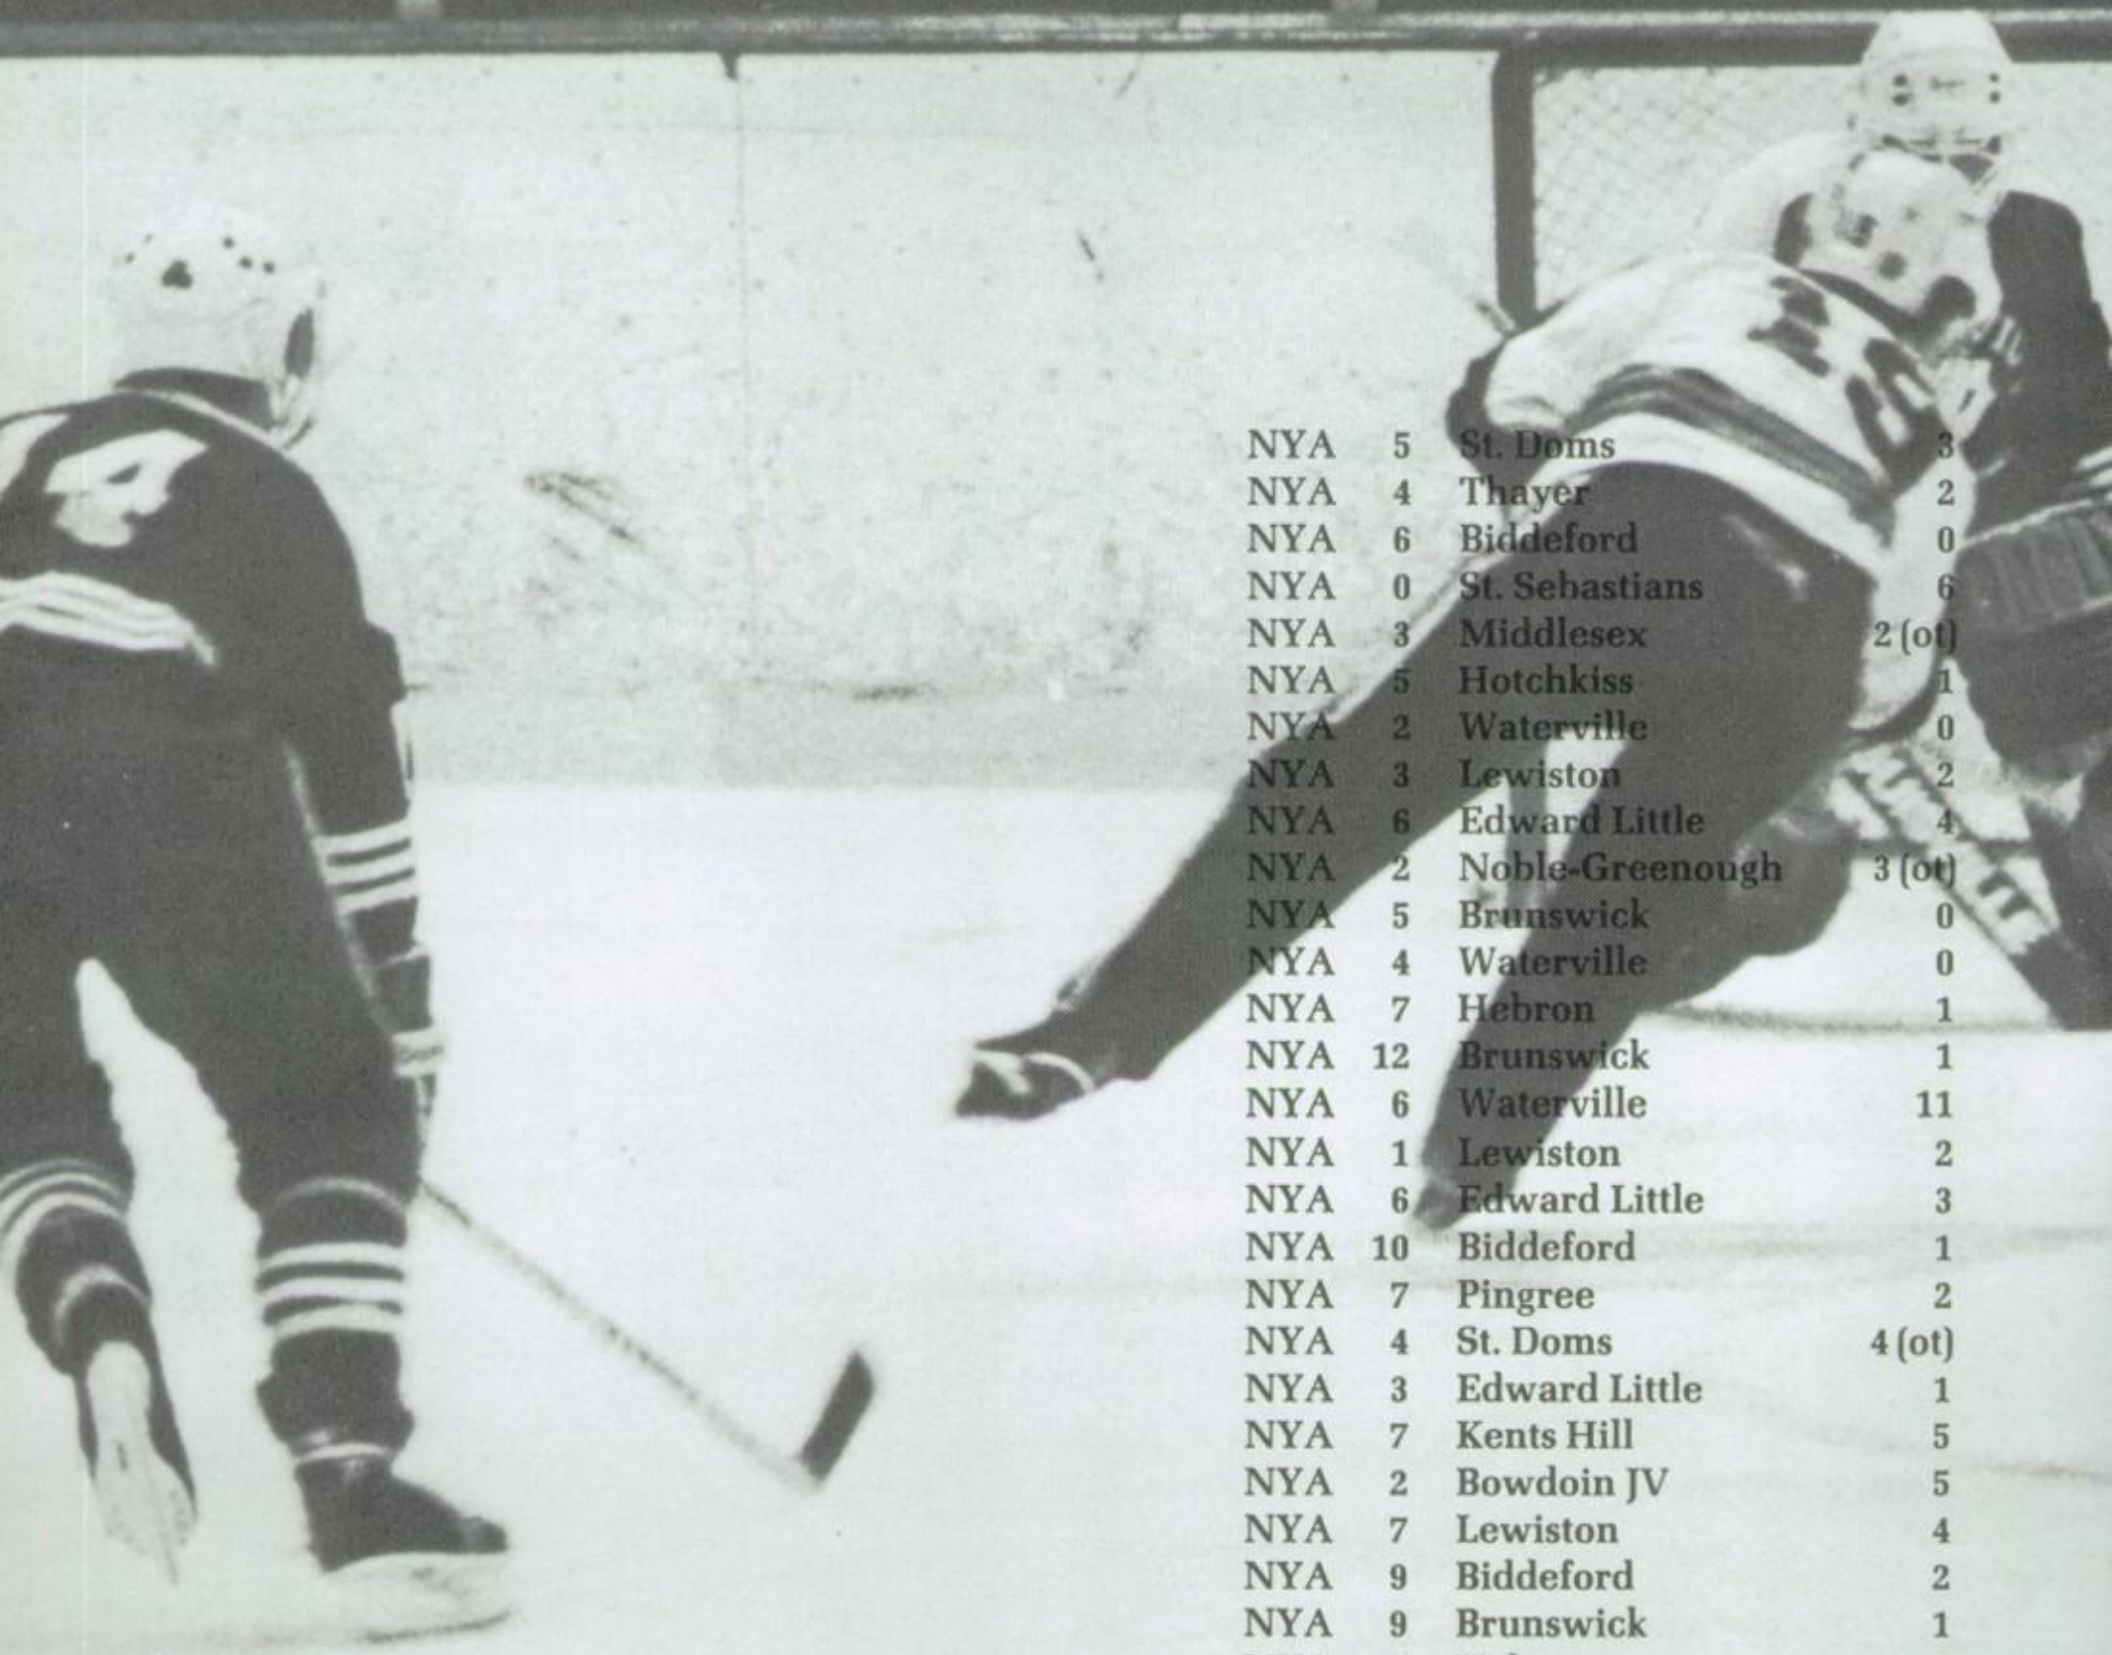

Although the races won were few in number, the victories of improved individual times and the achievement of a disciplined mental attitude and physical capability gave the team a strong sense of success. With the extremely supportive coaching of Mrs. Kessler, the season was filled with fun as well as hard work.

By the looks of the record, one would think that the NYA Varsity Hockey Team enjoyed another successful season. If a team member is asked, though, he will say that the team was one game away from a successful season. Once again, the Varsity lost another heartbreaking final game to the Lewiston Blue Devils in the CMYC: a team that the varsity had soundly beaten in the regular season. With a 16-1-1 record going into the play offs, NYA looked tough to beat, and following a 5-1 victory over Waterville in the semis, a state final victory looked even closer. But, in a game that could have gone either way with a bounce of a puck, Lewiston prevailed 3-2 at the final horn.

The season began with a strong start: we beat St. Dom's, 5-3. After losing Mike McHugh and Paul Belliveau, two top scorers from the year before, the team was supposedly going to rely on defense. And although the team had the lowest goals against this year (under 2.0), it also had three of the top ten scorers in the state. One in particular came out of nowhere to lead the team in goals and in his unwillingness to give-up attitude. If there were a most improved award, it would certainly go to Joe Thornly who will return for his senior year to carry a lot of the load up front with a young forward group. Ironically, in the next few games, the team compiled numerous goals which was an unexpected but pleasant surprise. The defense, as expected, was solid, allowing fewer than 20 shots per game. The team then played well against visiting Thayer Academy from Massachusetts.

In a tough hard fought game, NYA prevailed 4-2. NYA then traveled to Massachusetts to play in the St. Mark's tournament. The first challenge was to play St. Sebastian's School of Massachusetts. NYA never really got on track and were beaten soundly, 6-0; however, they did bounce back to beat Hotchkiss School and to win in overtime against Middlesex School for the consolation win, the second year in a row. After returning from Massachusetts, the team defeated Waterville, Lewiston, and Edward Little. Then, in possibly, the best game of the season, the varsity battled a very strong Noble and Greenough team from the Keller League in Massachusetts to a 3-2 overtime loss. Hereupon, after winning nine straight league games, the team lost its first game in league play to Lewiston, 2-1. NYA outshot Lewiston almost 2-1 but could not seem to put the puck past the Lewiston goal tender. The team went 12-0-1 through the rest of the season, achieving a tie with St. Dom's and wins against Lewiston, Kents Hill, and the Bowdoin J.V.'s. The tie with St. Doms occurred when Joey Thornley scored with less than a minute to play which sent the game into an exciting overtime. Many scoring opportunities for both sides were thwarted, including a breakaway by Eric Weinrich: it looked as though the game had been won, but the backhander went through the crease and by the post. The game ended in a 4-4 tie. Yet, when NYA met the Saints again, the Panthers pulled a dramatic come from behind win 4-2 to end the regular season play.

The team once again travelled to Lewiston for the play offs, even though NYA was the number one seed going in to the tournament. The Orange and black came up against the 4th place Waterville team who had not scored a goal against NYA all year. Although they did finally score it was not enough, coming on the short end of a 5-1 victory for NYA. Again, for a third year in a row, the varsity team had earned a spot in the state final. For the time, though, as Number One but still playing in the Lewiston rink in front of 2000 Lewiston fans. This final game went scoreless through the first period with many scoring bids. Lewiston scored in the second period and so too did Joey Thornley to tie it at 1-1. In the third after Lewiston scored again to go ahead, Keith Russell scored the goal of the year — perhaps the goal of his lifetime: he skated from behind his own net, through two defensemen and while falling, he fired the puck off the far post into the goal. The goal gave the team the lift which they badly needed, but with two minutes left, Lewiston shipped a goal by Sean Carroll which proved them to be the winner.

Players of the finest NYA varsity hockey team the school has ever had were awarded for their play. Eric Weinrich received his third all-state selection while being the third leading scorer in the state. He also received 1st team selection on the New England prep-school all-start team. Joe Thornley and Keith Russell, 5th and 8th respectively in scoring, received their first all-state selections, along with blue-liner Steve Dumond who enjoyed his best season. Many people felt that all four defensemen for NYA should have been all-state selections along with goalie Sean Carroll. Murray Sparks, Nate Smith, Bob Bernard and Carroll did, however receive honorable mention for their play. Carroll led the league with the lowest goals against. The coach of the year could have easily gone to Coach Goode for the third year in a row. He and Coach Hudson had another excellent year behind the bench. And although awards are not given to managers, Kim Luce, Chris Patrie and EMT Brad Wall certainly are to be commended for their work this year.

The 1983-84 girls' basketball team started with eleven enthusiastic players who wanted to win no matter how great the odds. Not many people expected the squad to perform well, but the team was determined to win and earn a place in the Augusta tournament. Thanks to the efforts of talented players like Serrene Karkos, the high scorer who averaged eleven points per game and who was elected to Class C All-Star 2nd Team, and Dee Ann Lindsey, who was second in scoring with an average of eight points per game, we were successful in getting the points necessary to end with a 10-11 record. Both members not only played solid defense, they also played great defense. Equally indispensable was rebounder co-captain Jennifer Lane who made 70 offensive and defensive rebounds this season in addition to scoring an average 5 points a game. The other co-captain senior Amy Lindsey, although not a top scorer, was one of the more experienced players who gave a lot of spirit to the team. Meg Fenderson, another senior, contributed a strength in rebounding when she played, bringing down for the season 32 rebounds. Newcomer Marge McCullum also added to the scoring and to the rebounding. Of the four freshmen, Sandi Bartels was the alternate 5th player while Dorene Flaherty, Maureen Fitzgerald and Mary Graziano, even though they did not get a lot of game time, gave the team vocal support during the games and made the starting 5 better by giving them rougher practice sessions. And of course the smiles and vocal support of manager Allison Palmer was most supportive.

The thought of making the championship playoffs was not in the team expectations, though they did aspire toward that goal. And as Coach Steve Morris said, "We won the games we were supposed to and then went on to win ones we weren't favored to." Coach Morris and Assistant Coach Julie Bobrycki put the team into condition, showed the necessary skills and taught them how to use these skills in a game.

The team really never had any easy games. Even though the opener against North Haven looked like a good omen, the next game they played, against Vinalhaven, was a better indicator of how the team would have to battle each opponent. The defense often worked well, which is indicated by several low scoring games. Practically every game the team played was a nail-biter, making every fourth quarter one of unbelievable tension. For example, the game against GPCS: one was lost by 3 points and the other was won by one basket. And the home game playoff match against Vinalhaven was a see-saw tension filled contest which NYA won and which consequently put the team in third place going into the state tournament held at the Augusta Civic Center. And although Marge, Dee Ann and Serrene were the only ones to score in that final game, NYA gave Buckfield a tough battle before losing 46-30.

For the second time in NYA's history and for the second year in a row, the boys' basketball team made the playoffs and ended its season with a 7-12 record. The season had a depressing start. They were beaten on the islands in the first two games only to face Waynflete on their return and lose again. The team's morale slid by that third game and no one expected that at the end of the season NYA would be in the playoffs against that same Green team. After securing a win over Buckfield, the team received a much needed life which helped them achieve a decent record. Greater Portland Christian School, even though a new team to Class D, proved to be a tough opponent since they acquired the starting center for South Portland, Sean Oles. And although NYA did lose to GPCS by six points, the Panthers were anticipating the next match against them because NYA knew they were capable of beating GPCS. The very next game happened to be against GPCS and in the lowest scoring game of the year 30-27, NYA won over the Lions. In the second match-up against Waynflete, NYA had many opportunities to get ahead but, in the fourth quarter, the inability to score with outside shooting and the inability to work the ball down low made NYA lose a close battle. Bitterly yet surprisingly, NYA ended the year in 5th place only to lose the Green Machine in the preliminary round of the playoffs.

In addition to making the playoffs, the team also sent the team's two key scorers to the Independent School All-Star game at Kents Hill: junior center-forward Ted Pendleton and junior point guard Josh Wolfe. Ten Pendleton, with his running hook across the key, and Josh Wolfe, with his driving to the basket coupled with his outside shooting were two key players for NYA all season. Equally important were senior co-captains Rod Pendleton and John Fanning. With Rod's leadership and defensive playing ability and with John's outside shooting, the team was able to make it to the championships. Other senior players were Bill Lane who superbly shut down the Big Man Sean Oles of GPCS and Matt Jeton who hustled and showed incredible determination to play well both in games and practices. Juniors Wellman Brewer, Jeff Gagne, and Stephen Broberg saw a fair amount of playing time.

Brewer came on strong at the end of the season with his outside shooting, especially at home against Waynflete when he scored 16 points. Broberg, although not incredibly tall, was one of the best defensive rebounders on the team and such ability was demonstrated against Oak Grove when he pulled down 9 rebounds in less than four minutes. Gagne was a baseline shooter who often vied with Bill Lane for the 5th player position. Sophomores Mark "The Big Man" Nelson and Bernard Williman too, added a great deal to the program this season and will see a lot of playing time next year along with Freshman Chris Erdmann. The team managers were Julia Noyes and Marcie Stewart.

One thing to keep in mind for next year: with only four seniors leaving, perhaps the mountain man beard of Coach Briggs will disappear after the 84-85 season.

Figure Skating

This year's skating program was by far the most successful one yet. There were several new girls in the program who along with returning skaters worked hard to improve their skating during the cold morning hours. The highlights of the season were an exhibition midway through the year featuring solo's by Allyson Palmer and Meg MacDiarmid and a final show in March in which all skaters elegantly showed their skills. A guest appearance was made by Amy Webster and John Millier, a well known dance pair, and Tina Clark, who at her last performance at NYA, skated two beautiful programs. Special thanks must be given to everyone at the ice rink and school who helped with the program and especially to Mrs. Hathaway who through her time and effort brought the skaters together and made everything a success. This year's skaters included both upper and middle schoolers: Amy Anderson, Jennifer Chapman, Jessica Church, Betina Clark, Christina Clark, Christeen Coleman, Heather Curry, Kelly Curry, Jennifer Drew, Meagan Fauver, Leigh-ann Foster, Andrea Gove, Joanna Gove, Laura Haney, Stacy Holdsworth, Gretchen Kelly, Meg MacDiarmid, Kris Male, Jenna McEvoy, Andrea Murray, Allysin Palmer, and instructor Linda Hathaway.

Dance

The NYA Dance Class is a program which is increasing in popularity and which fulfills the athletic department requirement as a winter sport. The dance facilities are expanding and the studio has acquired exercise bars on two walls as well as a wall of full length mirrors.

The Dance group began session at 2:45 and was dismissed at 3:45. The students came to class wearing colorful leotards, tights, and ballet or jazz shoes. Jazz shoes were a real favorite this year. The class usually started with fifteen minutes of warm-ups — a time when many worked out at the bar. Other times the class engaged in floor exercises which required each dancer to create her own movement across the floor. The rest of the class was then entreated to imitate the same motion. This exercise often ended with hysterical results. (No names, Kris Prizer) This year the dance group spent a large portion of time learning routines to perform in a show. The show that was planned for this spring may well take place this fall.

A senior at Bowdoin, Trish Bauman, introduced modern dance to the class. Trish came twice a week for six weeks to teach the class new warm-ups and routines. She tried to show the class the important details of movement. She also taught the art of adding pauses to one routine to create an entirely new routine. Trish was truly a good experience for our dance class this year. Here at NYA the expansion of the dance program is a very good sign. Through dancing, student athletes are given the opportunity to express themselves creatively outside the class room. This year eleven girls participated in the program. They included both middle schoolers and upper schoolers: Kristina Andrew, Anne Campbell, Kim Capozza, Helen Flagg, Erica Lngersoll, Karyn Kocincki, Amy Parnell, Lisa Pasho, Jennifer Plunkett, Kris Prizer, and Desiree Pullen.

With so many participants and so much enthusiasm, Dance is becoming a sport in its own right within the school.

Led by captain Steve Dumond, the 1984 Boys' Baseball Team maintained another fine season, ending with an 8-5 record and a second place finish in the Western Indy League.

The NYA team began its season with a tough low hitting battle against the last year's state champion, the Fryeburg team, losing the first confrontation by one run only to have a batting practice-like session their next game against Buckfield. Then after losing another close one, this time to Bridgton, the team had a home-run field day against Rangeley with senior Steve Dumond, senior Rick Quarton, and junior Josh Wolfe hitting homers that remained in the park and with junior Eric Weinrich belting one over the right field fence. When the team lost the next two against Kents Hill and Telestar, they kept their spirits up and came back to win the next six games in a row which included beating the first round winners, Fryeburg, and also Kents Hill and Telestar.

So with an outfield consisting of Josh Wolfe left field, Joe Thornley centerfield, Ben Hunter rightfield, and with an infield consisting of Jeff Gagne or Bob MacQueston at first, Alex Weinrich or Wellman Brewer at second, Steve Dumond at short stop, Rick Quarton or Bob Bernard at third, Eric Weinrich behind the plate and Steve Broberg or Brent McLeod on the mound, Coach Morris and assistant coach Fuller's Varsity baseball team had quite a successful year.

The 1984 softball team proved successful, although the record does not show it. The steady improvement of all the players was quite necessary and quite enjoyable to watch.

The season began in April with 19 players. This presented the first problem: there were too many athletes for one team and too few for two teams. Consequently, a "taxi-squad" developed involving Amy Anderson, Jenna McEvoy, Katrina Hoare and Meg Horan. These players came to practice to improve their skills but they did not dress for games.

The varsity squad consisted of many versatile players. In the infield, playing at first base was returning junior Jennifer Lane, who was a co-captain along with returning four year senior veteran Amy Lindsey who played second base. Occupying short stop was freshman slugger Chris Coleman and playing third base was Marcie Stewart. Marcie, a newcomer, also shared the duty of pitching when sophomore Dee Anne Lindsey was not on the mound. Serrene Karkos completed the infield as catcher as well as adding to the offense by being a solid hitter. The very important (and sometimes boring outfield) was occupied by a young crew. Freshmen Sande Bartels and Maureen Fitzgerald shared the left field position while sophomore Allyson Palmer played center field and sophomore Lisa Arnold, an "ex-Saint," played right field. Lisa's desire to play well and experience truly helped hold the outfield together.

The team will miss senior two year veteran Tina Clark and senior co-captain Amy Lindsey since they depart for college during the summer. Also departing this summer will be sophomore Dee Anne Lindsey, a great pitcher, hitter and team player and Assistant Coach Mr. Robert Martin. These two people will greatly be missed by the team and by Coach Curtis. Both Coaches' patience and enthusiasm helped improve each player's softball skills and made the season an enjoyable one.

Although this spring lacrosse season was not a winning season, the team still developed many fine skills. Coach Naiden had seniors Brooks, Crothers, Dalton, Jeton, Lane, R. Pendleton, Skillings, Thomas, and Wall as key members of the team. Brooks with his solid rushing and passing abilities did well in his midfield position as did Crothers in his attack position. Kevin Dalton and Co-Captain Matt Jeton always provided solid defense. Jeton's defensive play and Bill Lane's controlled play coupled with this solid offensive rushing earned them spots on the MAISAD ALL-STAR Squad. In addition, R. Pendleton, only a second year player, as well as Co-Captain Jim Skillings, added solid hustle, enthusiasm and team playing. Jimmy, who had some of the best stick skills and consequently controlled attack play behind the net, was also a member of the All-Star squad. Another player who controlled the ball well and had a quick shot was midfielder Willy Thomas. And although Brad Wall didn't begin the season as a starter, with his team hustle and overall aggressiveness he played more and more as the season progressed.

Juniors Carroll, T. Pendleton, Smith, Sparks and Vamvakias, likewise, sparked the team with their spirited play. Sean Carroll, who played and improved greatly as goalie, also came out to play attack. And when Carroll played attack Ted Pendleton who played solidly with a good clear, would take over the goalie position. With his fast break and rush, Nate Smith helped control midfield play with high scorer and fast shooting Murray Sparks. Andy Vamvakias, too, added to the midfield play early in the season but this solid feeder and shooter switched to attack during the last few games.

Sophomores Dan Alexander and Denny Moorehead, although they did not play much, improved a lot during the season. And freshman midfielder and attack starter Sam Robinson demonstrated good control of the ball as did fellow freshman Billy St. Lawrence.

Although the 1984 Lacrosse season ended with a disappointing 0-12 record, the team members never lost their enthusiasm or desire to play. Many individual improvements were made, and a more successful season next year is expected.

1984 MAISAD DOUBLES
CHAMPIONS

For the second successive year the Varsity Men's Tennis team completed its season with several outstanding accomplishments. Leading the list are the teams repeat appearance in the S.P.A. class "A" Playoffs as winner of the Southern Independent League and again having the top doubles team of Maine private schools as champions of the MAISAD Tournament. Repeating these two accomplishments seemed very unlikely at the start of the season. Since the team had lost nearly half of its roster at last year's graduation. The largest turnout ever for tennis at N.Y.A. in combination with fine veteran leadership overcame this gap in the team's roster and led to such a successful season.

The season officially began with tryouts at the end of March on the indoor courts of the Tennis of Maine. Greeted by nearly twenty candidates for the team, Coach Hudson was able to establish a J.V. team for the first time in N.Y.A. history. This group, mainly comprised of freshmen and sophomores, compiled a 3-1-0 record and should prove to be a fine feeder for the Varsity in future years. Two members of the J.V., freshman Paul Kolachov and Mike Hildreth, also made a significant contribution to the varsity by filling the spots of absent team members at several matches and will play an important role on next year's team. The regular Varsity roster was made up of senior co-captain Chris Beck, Tom Harper, and Andy Walsh at singles, and senior co-captain Keith Russell, Mark Roffey, Chris Pellerin and senior veteran John Fanning at doubles. The three seniors brought a combined total of ten years Varsity experience to the team and played a major role throughout the season both in terms of solid performance and also as an example to the younger players.

Following rain filled three weeks of tryouts, practice, and vacation, the team began its competitive schedule with the uncertainties of several young players and untested doubles teams. This general lack of experience along with several absences on match days led to a record of four losses in the team's first five matches. Throughout these first two weeks though, valuable experience was gained as the team roster shifted, continually seeking better doubles pairings and the proper singles lineup. Three of these early losses were close 3-2 matches and it was clear that the team was on the verge of jelling. From this point on, the team went on a tear and completed the remainder of the season by winning all of its matches. This streak of five straight wins gave the team a fine record of seven and four for the regular season.

Leading the way was the outstanding play of the doubles, traditionally the strength of N.Y.A. teams. The pairings of Russell and Roffey at first doubles and Fanning and Pellerin at second doubles compiled season records of 8-1 and 6-0, respectively. Their dominance was clearly shown at the MAISAD Tournament, with both teams reaching the finals after defeating the first and second double teams from all the other private schools. At singles, Tom Harper proved to be the surprise of the team. Last year only a Varsity alternate, Tom moved all the way up the ladder to the second singles spot and compiled a fine 7-3 record for the season. Chris Beck facing high quality opponents at the first singles spot did not let early season setbacks discourage him, and finished the last two weeks of the season strongly with successive wins and also a fine showing at the state singles tournament. Andy Walsh filled the final singles spot and, although unable to settle down into a consistent game, showed good ability and potential highlighted by his reaching the semi-finals of the MAISAD singles tournament.

The season ended for the second straight year with a loss to three time State Champion Lewiston in the Class "A" Playoffs; but all in all was a satisfying season for all concerned, regardless of the final match outcome.

The girls' tennis team had a very successful season this year. Ms. Lindemann did a wonderful job coaching a tennis team for the first time, despite the fact that the season had a discouraging start. After having the first few matches cancelled, the team finally began playing in May, and although they didn't win all of their matches, the NYA team demonstrated a greater degree of sportsmanship and team spirit than the majority of their opponents.

With a 5-4 record, the team was led by captains Stephanie Hart and Meg Fenderson. The varsity squad consisted of 1st singles Stephanie Hart (5-2), 2nd singles Kelly Curry (2-6), 3rd singles Jessica Church (4-2), 1st doubles Desiree Pullen — Meg Fenderson (8-0), 2nd doubles Laura Haney — Joanna Gove (5-3), Andrea Gove, Julia Noyes, and Kristina Andrew. The varsity team was managed by Sarah Harrell who was also part of the J.V. team along with Megan Fauver and Andrea Murray.

The season came to a pleasing close with senior Meg Fenderson and junior Desiree Pullen winning the MAISAD doubles tournament and junior Stephanie Hart making it to the semi-finals of the MAISAD single's tournament. Considering that the NYA girls tennis team was at a disadvantage against many of the other schools because of its small size and limited pre-season playing time, it did exceptionally well during the 1984 season.

ACTIVITIES

Drama

NYA produced four terrific drama productions this year under the direction of Reggie and Gloria Bonnin and with the help of crew advisor Letty Berkovich. The winter drama group performed two plays: the first, an adaptation of Dicken's Christmas Carol, dealt with the trials and tribulations of Ernestina Scrooge-Egonizer's great granddaughter — as she had to face her own shortcomings on Christmas Eve; the second play, an adaptation of George Orwell's 1984, centered on a society ruled by a fictitious enslaver Big Brother and focused on the one person, Winston who dared to question the rule of Big Brother and who dreamed of a pardon that was rightfully his. The third play was put on by the Drama Class for the Maine Regional One Act Play Competition held at Cape Elizabeth. The play, "Open Window," an English comedy about lies, nerves, and rising dead men, centered on Frampton Nettles, a young man, who needed rest and relaxation and received the exact opposite when he visited an unusual English country family. The Broadway Musical activity produced the last play of the 1983-1984 school year, "Snoopy," based on Charles M. Schulz's comic strip PEANUTS. Each member of the cast had at least one role to play and had to be part of the crew, so that this rollicking musical about the exploits of a small beagle could be such a success. And indeed the drama productions were quite entertaining and successful, and they showed the versatile talents of many fine actors and actresses in the school.
